

BAKER LOOKS INTO HUBBARD ACCIDENT

District Attorney Will Go Over Evidence This Afternoon.

Upon the outcome of a meeting this afternoon between United States District Attorney Baker and Deputy Coroner Glazebrook will depend whether the grand jury will continue the investigation to determine the responsibility for the death of Mrs. Gertrude M. Hubbard, widow of the founder of the National Geographic Society, who was killed when a Capital Traction car ran into the rear of her automobile at Connecticut avenue and Macomb street on Wednesday afternoon.

Because Dr. Glazebrook, who conducted the Hubbard inquest yesterday, is dissatisfied with the jury's finding he decided that the best course was to put the question up to the District Attorney's office.

The deputy coroner this morning forwarded a copy of the verdict, together with the stenographic record of the inquest, to District Attorney Baker, in whose absence Assistant District Attorney Proctor acted.

Dr. Glazebrook said this morning that the verdict of the jury "is unprecedented." The verdict says: "We find that Mrs. Gertrude M. Hubbard came to her death as a result of a collision between her automobile and Capital Traction car No. 13, and that, inasmuch as we cannot come to an agreement as to the fixing of the responsibility, we recommend that the case be submitted to the grand jury for further investigation."

Assistant District Attorney Proctor would make no other comment than that he "thought Dr. Glazebrook had done right in view of the testimony." The case will be referred to Mr. Baker upon his return to his desk.

Discuss Legal Rights.

There is today considerable discussion as to the legal right of the District authorities to put both sides of a roadway out of commission at the same time and require pedestrians and vehicles to use the car tracks in passing to and from that roadway. According to the Superintendent of Highways, this authority is in the law which gives the Commissioners the right to close a street when repairs are in progress. In this the District authorities assume that a roadway can be treated as a city street.

In the case of the roadway repairs on Connecticut avenue at the Macomb, it was shown at the Hubbard inquest yesterday that there would have been no accident had the repairs not necessitated the closing of the roadway, which compelled the Hubbard chauffeur to steer his car over the street car tracks. According to Leonard P. Bradshaw, an inspector in the District Engineer Department, it is no unusual thing for the Highway Department to close a road under these circumstances and make no provision, other than that afforded by the space allowed for the railway tracks, for passing vehicles.

The matter has been the subject of criticism on several occasions in the past, and it is not unlikely that the fatality which resulted in Mrs. Hubbard's death will stir the District authorities to make provision in the future for the passage of vehicles over roads being resurfaced and torn up other than over the car tracks.

In the absence of Captain Markham, Assistant to the Engineer Commissioner in charge of highways, no action along this line was taken up. Superintendent of Highways Hunt visited the scene of the Hubbard accident with a view of opening one side of the roadway, and it is probable that this will be done as a matter of precaution. It is admitted at the highway office that Connecticut avenue at this point is exceedingly dangerous, and that it would be in the interest of public safety to make it less so without delay.

Conflicting testimony as to the exact speed of the car which crashed into the Hubbard automobile developed near the close of the coroner's inquest.

Two witnesses, Major Henry G. Cole

IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

AXEL NELSON, CHAUFFEUR OF MRS. HUBBARD'S AUTO.

SAMUEL S. WILEY, MOTORMAN OF CAR NO. 13

and Major H. F. Reisinger, of the Marine Corps, who were riding into the city in Major Cole's automobile, and were passed by the car, declared its speed was not less than thirty miles an hour, while Cleveland Wiley and Claude Havener, respectively, motorman and conductor of the car that figured in the accident, were insistent that they had not exceeded the legal speed limit of twenty miles an hour. Further than this, Wiley declared that just before he reached Connecticut avenue and Macomb street, the scene of the fatality, he slowed down and was not running more than ten miles an hour. In this he was supported by O. B. Bussard, foreman of the gang of workmen who were in the car at the time of the accident.

Contradict Testimony.

Both Wiley and Havener contradicted the testimony of Axel Nelson, Mrs. Hubbard's chauffeur, that the rear light on the automobile was lighted. Testifying as to the accident, Motorman Wiley said:

"I was going at fair speed when I saw, about fifty feet in front of me, an automobile. It loomed up suddenly from nowhere. I put on my brakes and reversed my controller, but the overhead switch blew out. The automobile seemed to be getting off the track when my car struck it. I could not see any rear light on the automobile, and I don't think it was lighted, because if it had been I would have seen it."

Conductor Havener said he was standing on the rear platform of his car when the crash occurred. The first indication that danger was near, he said, was when he heard the bell clang and the overhead switch blew out. Touching the question of the rear light on the Hubbard automobile, he said:

"After I had jumped off my car and helped the injured lady in Major Cole's automobile I went to the rear of the smashed automobile and looked at the rear signal light. It was not lit, and it was cold when I felt it."

About an hour and a half was spent by the jury in its deliberation. When it returned and the verdict was made known to Dr. Glazebrook, he commented on it as the most unusual he had ever known. He said:

The action of the jury in this case was unusual. It was what might be called a hung jury, and I have never known such a condition to prevail before. I understand that certain of the jurymen wanted to censure the motorman and conductor, while others favored a verdict of unavoidable accident."

WHAT IS HYOMEL?

You Have Heard About the Catarrh Cure Henry Evans Guarantees.

Hyomel is a wonderful antiseptic, so powerful that it promptly destroys germ life, yet its action on the mucous membrane is extremely soothing and healing. It relieves catarrh in five minutes; it cures in a few weeks or money back.

It is made chiefly of eucalyptus and eucalyptol taken from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia. The medical profession knows that eucalyptus is an absolutely certain germ destroyer and with the active principles of eucalyptus as a base Hyomel is made more efficient, pleasant and quick acting by the addition of Thymol, an antiseptic and disinfectant largely employed in the Listerian System. Gualacol and other important medicinal agents are also included in the Hyomel formula, which without doubt, is the greatest destroyer of catarrh germs the world has ever known.

Hyomel is a powerful, penetrating antiseptic that is pleasant to use. It does not contain a particle of cocaine, opium or any habit-forming or injurious drug. No dosing the stomach when you use Hyomel. Just breathe it in through the small inhaler that comes with each outfit. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Washington by Henry Evans. $1.00 for complete outfit.

MI-ONA Cures Indigestion

DYNAMITE EXPLODES; THREE BOYS KILLED

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 22.—John and Albert Johnson, ten and eight years old, respectively, and Douglas Reynolds, eight, sons of miners at Guadalupe, a mining town near here, are dead today as the result of playing with dynamite caps.

The three boys found a crack in the wall of the powder house of the Guadalupe Mining Company, and succeeded in taking 600 dynamite caps from the place. One of the caps exploded and set off the remainder. The three boys were literally blown to pieces.

FRAMINGHAM ASKS BOARD OF FINANCE

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 22.—Aroused over the revelations following the alleged irregularities of Town Treasurer Lombard, which show he had been the prey of the grafters for several years, the citizens here are preparing to petition the incoming Legislature for permission to appoint a finance commission with full power to inquire particularly into the manner whereby public money was expended.

It is expected the commission will carefully take all matters over, connected with the official life of the town for twenty years, that the people may understand all conditions existing.

Congratulations

Yesterday's sale of Brushes and Mirrors was undoubtedly the most extraordinary ever held in Washington. A newspaper with 40,000 circulation—probably more than 80,000 readers—surely has merit. A store offering 12,500 Brushes and 10,250 Mirrors, after distributing as many more in two previous sales, unquestionably demonstrates its faith in its patrons. The readers of its evening announcement who crowded the sidewalk to the streets next morning, and the thousands who came during the day, as practically proved their faith in the store. Are not mutual congratulations in order?

39c for Mirrors

Brushes, 32c

When best French Plate Glass Mirrors, as wide as four columns of The Times, are only 39c, and when Brushes with warranted best bristles are 32c instead of $1.00 to $2.00, the ultimate result is obvious. The extraordinary feature of the sale is not only the marvelously good values, but that the announcement over night should bring so overwhelmingly great a response the following morning. Think of it—22,750 of these Brushes and Mirrors here Thursday morning and already we have to remind laggards to hurry or they'll be too late.

Another Phenomenal Sale

Tomorrow's new sale will be of Ostrich Feather Plumes. The millinery chief is still in New York—telegraphs as follows:

"To A. Lisner.
"Advise for sale Saturday Morning Sale 1,200 Ostrich Plumes; black and white only. $3.49 for $5.00 values, $4.98 for $8.00 values, $7.49 for $10 values. Remind milliners."

"She Never Told a Lie"

The Palais Royal army is composed of members with various characteristics. Mabel Dell, the millinery chief, is known among us as "the girl who never tells a lie." She's positively cruel at times, with her awful truths, and we sometimes almost wish she would—at least be silent. So rely upon it—that best of $5.00 to $10.00 Plumes are to be only $3.49 to $7.49. Milliners will believe—they all know.

I have just come from the one-night stands and I have had some experiences! That's how she begins her story—"The True Story of a Young Actress," a remarkable human document, with all the glamour rubbed off and all the real experiences rubbed in. It is a graphic picture of life on the road, in cheap hotels, behind the scenes—a life that demands constitution as well as temperament.
